Recently, I was given this Infinity sub because it didn't work. The original owner had always planned to repair it, but never got around to it and with spring cleaning it had to go. I brought it home and plugged it into my old Sony's LFE out to see what's going on. The sub powered on and went into standby as indicated by the red light on the amp.

I have an Infinity Entra subwoofer connected to my AV receiver, and just recently it has started cutting in and out. When it cuts out the LED on the SW turns red. I can either unplug the unit's power for a few seconds or just wait awhile and the LED will turn green and the subwoofer resumes working. This issue occurs at all volume levels.
